

The Daily Gazetteer.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1744.

Turin, October 31.

THE last Letters from the Camp of Vignolo inform us, that the King had detach'd several Bodies of Troops to occupy the Hills that overlook the Roads by which the Enemy are to pass in their Retreat, and, in Consequence of which, they will be extremely harass'd. We have already taken several hundred of Miquelets; and whenever our Troops approach the Rear of the Enemy, the Corps that are nearest to them take that Opportunity of deserting. In filling up the Trenches before Coni, 2000 Bullets have been used; and in demolishing the Works behind which the Enemy receiv'd us a Month ago, 800 more Bullets were used. They have not left their Artillery and Mortars, as we expected, at Demont, but have sent them to Mont. They have actually rais'd two Redoubts, and the other Works, on the Mountain of Dodio, near Demont, in which they have posted between five and 60 Men; but we apprehend, that this is only done to conceal their March, and to prevent our following them; for we cannot apprehend, that it is possible for them to furnish these Troops with Provision sufficient for their Subsistence during the Winter. We shall, however, very soon oblige them to discover their Design, since his Majesty is actually drawing his Force that Way, and will soon follow with the Gros of his Army, in order to invest the Place, or attack those Troops in their Retrenchments, in case that shall be found, more expedient. The Enemy left behind them 100 Sick and Wounded, among whom were 37 Officers in the little Town of St. Dalmas, with a Letter directed to Baron de Lutrum, in which he pays him the highest Compliments on his gallant Defence, and recommends those unhappy Men to his Protection.

Metz, November 17. The Report of a great Body of French Troops coming into this Part of Germany, not only in order to their Passage thro' it, but with a view to their taking up their Quarters here for some time, has alarm'd all the Neighbouring Princes to such Degree, that they have sent their Ministers hither, to know the Resolution of his Serene Highness, in order to make it the Rule of their Conduct. A Council of State was called upon this, to deliberate on the Steps proper to be taken in so nice a Conjunction; and some of their Opinions in favour of a direct Refusal of the French Marshal's Demands, and advis'd the raising again of the Militia, and putting this City in a Posture of Defence; but, upon mature Deliberation, the Majority of voices carried it for submitting to the French Command, under solemn Protestation, that it is done by Force. These new and unwelcome Guests will be here a Fortnight's Time at most; but how long they will continue, is a Question we cannot resolve. It is said, about 10,000 will be quartered in the Neighbourhood of Frankfort, and that M. Mallebois will take up his Residence at Hockil; the first Column of these Troops to consist of 8000 Men; the Second of 12,000; and the Third of 10,000.

Paris, November 16. The King's Publick Entry was extremely magnificent; his Coach was surrounded by the Black and Grey Mousquetaires, the Light Horse and the Life Guards. His Majesty was alone, and uncover'd; but the Gallies were drawn up, by reason of the bad Weather. At his alighting out of the Coach at the Louvre, he found the Dauphin, and all the Princes of the Blood, on the Steps, whom he embrac'd one after another, and then proceeded to his Apartment. There was a vast Quantity of Bread and Wine given to the People; there were no Fire Works, the King having forbidden them; and the Illuminations were very indifferent, the Wind being so high, that it blew down the Lanterns. An Edict of the Parliament was published, commanding all the Shops in Paris to be shut for two Days, viz. the 13th and 14th; and the Illuminations were continued on the 15th. In the midst of all this Joy there was a visible Cloud on the Brow of the Dauphin, who wept incessantly, on the first News of his Governor, the Duke de Chartres's Disgrace; and what contributed to afflict him the more, was, that Major Malherbe, who was ordered to carry the Duke into Banishment, would not suffer him to take his Leave of the Dauphin, or so much as to see him. He signified his Orders to the Duke, at 12 o'Clock, and put a Guard upon him immediately; at Three he obliged him to take his Coach, and accompanied him to his Country Seat, where he is to remain. M. de Balleroy, late Governor to the Duke de Chartres, is likewise banish'd; which is a new Mortification to the Family of Orleans. The famous M. de Chauvelin, formerly Keeper of the Seals, and Co-adjutor to the Cardinal de Fleury, in his Ministry, is dying. The Marquis de Villeneuve, when he desired his Majesty's Leave to decline the Office of Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, told him, that under the pacific Administration of the late Cardinal, old Men were fit for Offices; but that Times of Action required active Men; for which Reason, he hoped his Majesty would excuse him from accepting an Employment, which his great Age, and the present Circumstance of Affairs, render'd him incapable to execute.

Hague, November 25. The greatest Politicians here pretend to have found out, that, notwithstanding the seeming Complaisance for France, which their High Mightinesses have all along maintained, there is, at the Bottom, a closer Correspondence than ever between Great Britain and this Republick; and that the latter is determin'd to exert her utmost Force in Support of the Common Cause, tho' still on the Foot of an Auxiliary. The same People say, that a Body of Hanoverian Troops will be taken into the Pay of the States; and that a Project of the last Importance is on the Carpet, of which the Publick will not receive any Notice, till the Meeting of the British Parliament. A certain Foreign Minister residing here, has receiv'd an Account, that a Resolution was taken on the 5th, in the Diet of Grodno, that the Army of the Crown should immediately march to the Assistance of the Queen of Hungary.

COUNTRY NEWS.

Yarmouth, November 19. His Majesty's Ship the Sheerness, Capt. Gordon, and the Trial, Capt. Stringer, being on a Cruise to guard the Fishery and Coast Trade between Lowestoff and Southwold, discover'd a Cutter and a Sloop, which endeavour'd to make their Escape from the Men of War; but the Sheerness taking the Cutter after a short Chase, she appear'd to be the Dove of Middleburg, about 35 Tons, with six Carriage and 18 Swivel Guns, and 15 Men, with upwards of 100 Casks of Brandy on board, besides Tea; and pretend'd they had taken the Sloop as a Prize, by Virtue of a Letter of Marque. The Trial bringing the Sloop to, after firing several Shot at her, she appear'd to be about 90 Tons, and eight Men, belonging to Rhode Island in America; and had on board, at Rotterdam, 14 large Guns, 100 Barrels of Gunpowder, 200 Muskets, 3000 Shot, besides Grenadoes, and other Arms; and report'd to be bound to the Island of St. John's, in the West Indies. Capt. Gordon and Capt. Stringer have brought the Cutter and Sloop into our Haven, and laid the whole of their Proceedings before the Lords of the Admiralty.

L O N D O N.

They write from Malines, that the Hanoverian Troops that were on the Point of marching into their own Country, have been suddenly countermand'd; since which, Dispositions have been made for their taking Winter Quarters in the Austrian Low Countries.

We learn by private Letters from Paris, that the Princes accuse the Marquis de la Mina of having defeated the Siege of Coni, by attacking it on the Strongest Side; and that the Marquis, on the other Hand, asserts, that there never was the least Probability of taking it; there never having been an Army sufficient to invest it, or the Artillery necessary for carrying on such a Siege.

We learn from Liege, that an Express was arriv'd there lately from Frankfort, who was suppos'd to bring ill News; because his Serene Highness, their Bishop and Prince, did not dine in Publick as usual; since which, a Report has prevail'd, that the Imperial Army has receiv'd a very severe Check near Passau.

Two Ships, one of 250 Tons, and 18 Guns; the other 150 Tons, and six Guns, are taken by the Lis Privateer, of St. Marlo's, and sent into Morlaix. Both these Prizes are laden with Tobacco, Iron, &c.

The Newport, Jephson, from Africa for Rhode Island, is taken by two French Men of War, and carried into Hispaniola.

The Tryton, from Virginia, is lost on the Bar of Bury.

On Sunday died, at his House in Piccadilly, Mr. Peter Wormsley, Musical Instrument Maker to his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales; he was reckon'd, by most good Judges, to be the best Maker of Violins and Violoncellos, &c. in England; he is succeeded by his Son, who has been Partners with him in Business, Ten Years.

Last Friday died, at Whitehall, Mr. Thomas Cranmer, one of the Clerks in the Duke of Newcastle's Office, and Son of Dr. Cranmer of Kingston. He was Affable, Obliging, and Good-natur'd; had acquir'd a considerable Knowledge in Mathematical Learning, and understood several Languages; in the midst of Youth, free from the Vices and Follies of the Age. His Death is greatly lamented by his Relations and Friends.

Letters from Euseur by the last Dutch Mail, dated the 14th Instant, advise, that by the Ships arriv'd there from the North Sea, they have not had any Intelligence of Capt. Loftings's Fleet; on which it's suppos'd that they must have put into Gottenburgh or Norway, they having had worse Storms than those of the 1st or 2d Inst. Several Ships drove, one of them from Bourdeaux, and is so near the Shore of Sweden, that 'tis fear'd she will be a-ground. Capt. Wedmash has lost his Anchors, but has brought his Ship below our Castle, where it's hop'd she will ride safe. Another Vessel is said to be ashore on the Swynbotten. The Dover Man of War did not arrive at Copenhagen till the 12th, and her Damage cannot be repair'd so soon as was expected. Capt. Johnson, from Petersburg, is not yet arriv'd here.

Yesterday being the Birth-Day of her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales, who then enter'd the 16th Year of her Age, there was a great Appearance of Nobility, Gentry, &c. at Leicester House, to pay their Compliments to their Royal Highnesses on that Occasion.

Last Sunday Night died Richard Nicholls, Esq; one of the Searchers belonging to the Custom-house. His Place is in the Gift of the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury.

Yesterday died, at her House in James-street, Westminster, Mrs. Jennison, a Gentlewoman of a large Fortune.
